

QUICK FACTS ABOUT HEAD LICE

THE HEAD LICE LIFE CYCLE

LICE ON THE BED?

Head lice rarely fall from the hair, so it is uncommon to catch head lice from furniture or bedding. While cleaning furniture and changing bedding is not required to eliminate an active head lice infestation, you can wash sheets in hot water and vacuum furniture for added peace of mind.

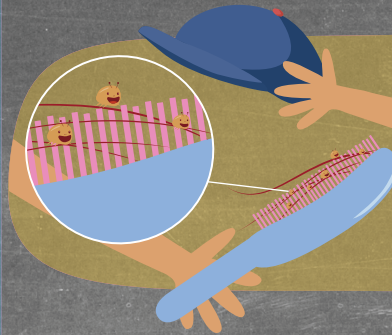

GROUNDING!

Head lice do not fly or jump, they have specially formed legs that allow them to cling onto the hair. They spread through direct head-to-head contact that occurs when playing or hugging.

WHAT HAVE YOU SHARED LATELY?

Avoid sharing hats, combs and other hair accessories. This will prevent an infestation from spreading and keep your family head lice free.

LICE INVASION

An adult female louse can lay up to 8 eggs a day! That's why it's important to get rid of head lice and eggs as soon as you spot them. Continue to comb and check hair daily with the V-Comb to prevent further infestations. Combing is the most effective way to remove head lice and eggs from the hair.

ELIMINATE HEAD LICE AND EGGS WITH THE EASE OF COMBING

The Licetec V-Comb is a revolutionary head lice treatment and prevention device that incorporates combing and vacuuming to get rid of head lice infestations. Eliminating the need for any harsh or harmful chemicals, the V-Comb is safe for daily use. It is designed to endure the rigors of frequent treatments and is reusable for multiple treatments - the same V-Comb can be used on more than one child after cleaning.

- ✓ ELECTRICAL DEVICE
- ✓ ALLERGY & CHEMICAL-FREE
- ✓ PREVENTS REDISTRIBUTION IN HAIR & AROUND THE HOME
- ✓ USER FRIENDLY

Visible Results
*Photo of a real capture filter after treatment.

For more information about head lice and how to treat it, visit www.licetec.com.au